

Summer School on Monitoring and Evaluation of International Development Programmes
Sixth Annual Edition
6 - 11 JUNE 2011 - Bologna, Italy

The course is organized in cooperation with the Center for International Development at the Rockefeller College for Public Affairs and Policy, SUNY University at Albany, NY
www.cid.suny.edu

The Summer School is organized and managed by the Centre for International Development (CID), a development policy advisory and training center based in Bologna
www.cid-bo.org

The course is part of the University of Bologna International Summer School Programme
www.unibo.it

A 6-day intensive course delivered in English, open to applicants of any country and background.

Participants are formally enrolled at the University of Bologna Summer School Programme. The course gives 4 credits (according to the European Credit Transfer System)

Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis.
Deadline is April 30, 2011.

Enrollment fee:
€ 1,550.00

Subsidies will be available in limited number and for applicants from developing countries only!

Enjoy a summer school in Bologna with lively people!

This is a cutting-edge programme, covering recent developments in M&E techniques and practices like:
the results-based approach;
the utilization-focused approach;
developmental evaluation;
outcome mapping.

The Course presents practical steps and examples in applying M&E methods to strengthen management for development results. Participants will leave with practical guidance on how to prepare and carry out benchmarking, monitor outcomes and use information on program results to improve performance. Policy implementers, program managers, government departments and agency staff, and consultants responsible for M&E will find this course useful.

The Course ranges from analytical tools to practical questions of monitoring and evaluating programs in developing countries, with particular focus on poverty reduction and social policy issues.

Attention will be devoted to data and indicators, how to use M&E results in designing and implementing policies and programmes, how to include participatory practices into project design.

Who should apply:
- Government functionaires
- Policy and program implementers
- Development practitioners
- NGO members and activists

APPLICATIONS CAN BE DOWNLOADED AT: www.cid-bo.org

REGISTER EARLY!

Trainers are all development experts with extensive experience on the field in low-income countries:

- Pier Giorgio Ardeni, professor of development economics at University of Bologna, policy advisor, expert in poverty reduction programs and statistical development.
- Terry Smutylo, advisor, Director of Evaluation at IDRC for 15 years, an expert on M&E and Outcome Mapping with extensive experience in M&E Training.
- Ricardo Wilson-Grau, monitoring and evaluation advisor, organizational development consultant, with extensive experience on international learning networks.